

PARTICIPANTS WANTED!!

The UCSD Developmental Cognitive and Social Neuroscience Lab is looking for high functioning children with autism, between the ages of six and ten years, to participate in a research study on how children are motivated during a guessing game.

Participants will visit our lab at UCSD for two sessions. During these sessions children will be given an assessment of cognitive functioning, as well as interact with a researcher and watch pictures of objects while playing a guessing game. We will record children's brain responses to pictures of the objects during the game.

This is a two session commitment, for 1-2 hours each day. Participants will receive $17.5 per session, for a total compensation of $35.
